

Ceramic Pools

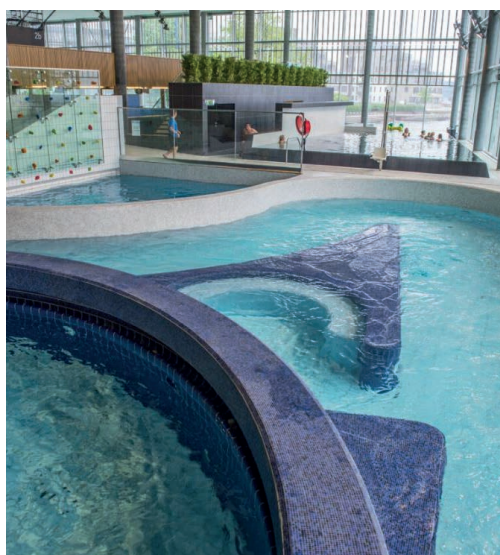

THE CHARM OF THE AMBITIOUS

This unusual pool in a large department stores' for travel and outdoor equipment was created to test boats and diving equipment right on the spot. The tiles are black to create an adventurous, mystical mood and to mirror the glass dome of the roof.

© agrob-buchtal.de / Foto: Christoph Seelbach, Köln

For the „Aquarama“ in Norway, a life cycle of 60 years was the requirement. Of course, ceramic tiles were chosen: not only for the pool.

© agrob-buchtal.de / Foto: Anders Martinsen

© agrob-buchtal.de / Foto: Christoph Seelbach, Köln

This swimming pool in Dessau shows that tiles are predestined to become an elementary stylistic device in architecture with colour and form.

Press photos | July 2022

Ceramic Pools

THE CHARM OF THE AMBITIOUS

This pool on the 21st floor of the Oasia Hotel in Singapore was designed by the Milan studio of internationally renowned designer Patricia Urquiola with 30x60cm tiles in blue and turquoise in a dynamic angular pattern.

© agrob-buchtal.de

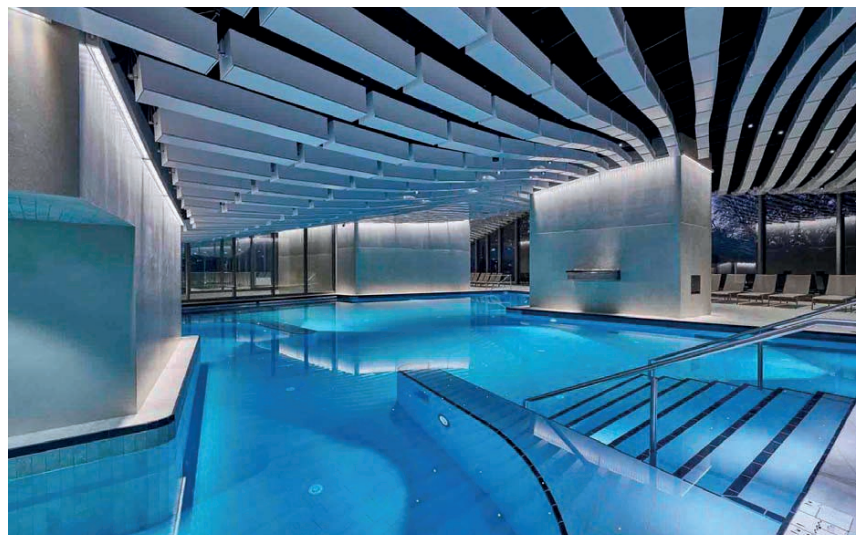

© agrob-buchtal.de / S. Lederer

© agrob-buchtal.de

The Paracelsus Bad & Kurhaus Salzburg impresses with tiles in a delightful rectangular format in the basin as well as contrasting ceramic contouring that not only serves to make them recognisable but also conveys superior aesthetics.

© agrob-buchtal.de / Foto: Fotodesign Peters, Amerang